

For more information, contact:
Geri Naylor, public relations director
Morton Vardeman & Carlson
770-536-8921
geri@vardeman.com

Dave Zacek, president
Lohmann Animal Health International
800-655-1342

Note to editors: This release is solely for use for publications issued in the Americas.

Lohmann Animal Health International Opens New National Distribution Center

Gainesville, Ga. (Sept. 15, 2005) — Beginning Dec. 1, 2005, Lohmann Animal Health International (LAHI) will begin shipping domestic avian vaccine orders to clients throughout the United States from their Global Distribution Center in Vineland, N. J.

This state-of-the art facility, with more than 30,000 sq. ft. including huge cooler capacities, currently serves the world market (more than 49 countries) with LAHI avian vaccines.

To assure fast professional vaccine delivery, a special section in that facility will serve national needs as well. Coolers and a shipping center have been added to the global center to serve as the national distribution center.

The new center is supported by national customer service and shipping technicians specializing in U.S. avian vaccine needs. This assures LAHI customers will receive the same personal attention as they have in the past.

“This change will allow LAHI to be more efficient,” said Dave Zacek, LAHI president. “It allows for centralized inventory access which will increase product availability and allow faster reaction time when changes occur in demand. It’s just one more way we are working to improve our service levels.”

Based in Gainesville, Ga., LAHI is a member of the PHW Group, which comprises 30 companies that produce avian vaccines and poultry for the global market. For more information, contact LAHI at (800) 655-1342 or visit the company’s website at www.lahinternational.com.

###